

The Charter of the Open World Assembly

Founding principles for peaceful decentralized coordination.

Public draft

Founding principles for peaceful decentralized coordination.

Humanity now possesses the means to communicate, coordinate, and act together across the planet.

We need not wait for kings, parties, corporations, or catastrophes to decide our future. We declare these principles.

I. The People Are the Source

All legitimate power rises from the people and remains answerable to them.

II. Consent Above Control

No authority is just without consent. No consent is real without the freedom to refuse.

III. Power Must Be Limited

Any power not checked will drift toward abuse.

IV. Participation Over Passivity

Those affected by decisions should have a voice in them.

V. Decentralize What Can Be Local

What can be decided locally should never be captured from afar.

VI. Coordinate What Must Be Shared

What concerns many may be aligned by many through open cooperation.

VII. Unity Without Uniformity

People may differ in culture, belief, and way of life while building peace together.

VIII. Nonviolence Is Strength

Violence breeds the systems it claims to defeat. Disciplined peace outlasts fear.

IX. Truth Must Be Visible

Transparency builds trust. Hidden power corrodes it.

X. Fatalism Is Folly

We need not wait for war, collapse, or nuclear fire to become wise.

Closing

The future is not owned by tyrants, algorithms, or inherited power.

The future belongs to free peoples who choose to build it together.

Let assemblies rise wherever people are. Let consent become visible. Let cooperation outrun coercion. Let the age of participation begin.
